

THE SIMULTANEOUS SYSTEMS

by

Philip Mazeikas

There once was a man who possessed a jewel of power.

The man gazed across the world at all of its systems.

The man had the idea to use the jewel of power to advance all of the systems equally at the same time.

The man held the jewel and advanced all of the systems.

The systems that were designed the most correct and were the strongest became the most advanced.